

ABSTRACT

A composition consisting essentially of an oily material, which is solid at room temperature, and a water-soluble organic medium; the composition being capable of dissolving or dispersing in water; and methods of making the composition.